JAMES M. FARLEY, STRIKE BREAKER, DIES

Given Credit as Men Who Originated "Industry of Strike Breaking"

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—The death of James M. Farley, known through years of leadership as a strike breaker in many cities of the United States and Canada, was reported early today from his home in Plattsburgh.

Farley, 39 years old, was generally given the credit of starting the "industry of strike breaking" from an altar boy at Malone, N. Y., where he was born 39 years ago. He turned to this business because of an upstate hotel and finally entered the service of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit company as a coal passer, from which he emerged in 1895 as leader of the nonunion forces which broke the great Brooklyn car strike. His success in Brooklyn won him fame and to city after city where labor troubles arose he was called to do similar work until his business of strike breaking and protecting lives and property developed into a systematic organization that for a time was the terror of strike agitators.

Farley's premium was so much for head of the men kept in service during strikes and in a few years he grew rich at his newly created business. He was credited with making $300,000 during the Interborough Rapid Transit strike in this city and still larger sums in later years, when he broke up strikes in Chicago, Cincinnati, San Francisco, Waterbury and many other places in this country and Canada.

Since his efforts days Farley has been a horse fancier, and during the latter part of his life he became the owner of a fine string of horses. He was such a thorough sportsman that during the last few weeks, when he knew that death from tuberculosis would take him this fall, he insisted upon being carried from one upstate track to another, where he lay beside the course on a cot and watched his favorite horses contend.

SULZER REGULARLY IMPEACHED, SAYS JUSTICE HASBROUCK

KINGSTON, N. Y., Sept. 11.—Justice Hasbrouck of the supreme court of the state today decided that Governor Sulzer was regularly impeached, and while awaiting impeachment trial was divested of the right to exercise his executive functions including the power to pardon.

The question of the legality of Sulzer's impeachment came before Justice Hasbrouck in connection with habeas corpus proceedings brought to enjoin the New York city authorities to honor Governor Sulzer's pardon of Joseph G. Robin, the banker convicted. He decided that Robin's pardon was invalid, quashed the writ and sent Robin back to prison at Blackwell's island.

Attorneys representing Sulzer and Robin had argued that the impeachment was illegal because voted by the assembly at a special session which was not called expressly to decide that question. The court refused to entertain this contention. The decision upheld the argument of the New York corporation counsel who maintained that the assembly, when it impeached, acted in a judicial and not a legislative capacity and was properly in session.

The assembly voted to impeach Governor Sulzer early on the morning of August 12. Although it was reported immediately that the governor would seek to overturn the assembly's action by recourse to the courts, Justice Hasbrouck's decision today was the first ruling made by any court on the legality of the impeachment.

Arguments on the validity of the writ of habeas corpus were heard here Monday. The questions raised were: First, whether Governor Sulzer was impeached and second, whether he was divested of his powers pending trial.

The subject of impeachment, says Justice Hasbrouck, is one of the power of a legislative body, and for this reason has a different character from a subject requiring the action of both branches of the legislature and the governor in order that laws may be enacted.

"The power conferred on the assembly to impeach the governor is a judicial power. The power of impeachment therefore, cannot be partitioned by the governor or senate, and therefore does not constitute a legislative subject."

ZAMACONA'S MISSION STILL A MYSTERY

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—Monsieur Zamacona, supposed representative of President-elect Wilson, left Washington today for New York with the secretary of the government officials. He did not seek an interview with any one but spent all his time with charge of the Mexican embassy. The latter was expected to confer with Secretary Bryan during the day and inform Mr. Bryan of the character of the Zamacona mission. The attitude of President Wilson and Secretary Bryan is not to receive any one unless they come to the capital and the negotiations begin.

Mr. Zamacona, with the understanding that the points made by Mr. Zamacona were to be considered as eliminated from the record, left here and left secretly. He is expected to return in a few days, while in New York will endeavor to secure a hearing.

Although the veil has in some extent lost its significance in England as a symbol of mourning, it is still used on the continent in this connection with great circumstance and ceremony.

Not only does a widow envelop herself for a lengthy period in a veil of amazing length and opaqueness, but every relative of the deceased assumes a similar dreary symbol of regret, its size and thickness varying with the exact date of bereavement according to the exact degree of relationship. In fact, a British widow visiting France and Italy for the first time is often astonished at the number of apparent widows he is apt to encounter in a day's walk. It is not until his curiosity leads him to prosecute inquiries that he learns the true reason for the prevalence of the deep mourning veil reaching from head to foot.

In the case of the yashmak signifies all that is subservient and dependent in the lives of the women. For a woman to appear unveiled before a man is to put herself forever beyond the pale, on the day that the woman of the east shall appear with impunity unveiled in a public place, on that day she will have set her foot on the first rung of the ladder of independence.

So, east or west, the veil holds its own from the yashmak to the motor veil from the chastening veil to the simple. Whatever antiquity may have to say as to its origin, we who are modern know that it owes its adoption in the first instance to the fact that it is universally and incurably becoming.

 termed it as to who is to be so treated where the line is to be drawn. That this method already applied to (habitual) criminals in some states, as well as many others aiming to check race degeneracy, will be adopted in time, when the world has become aroused to the menace that confronts it, he said there is no doubt.

Dr. Kellogg devoted the latter part of his paper to a discussion of what can be done to check the downward tendencies of the present. He had no complete program, he said, but would venture a few suggestions. He continued as follows:

Health Not Considered.
 That of all there ought to be set on foot a nation-wide movement to secure trained and cultivated men for every position involving the responsibility of health administration. The present situation is a pitifully intolerable. The health of men and women in the United States receives less far less attention than a consideration than does the health of swine, poultry and other domestic animals. The men charged with the custody of the public health are in many instances far less well qualified than their counterparts in those who have spent their lives on livestock.

There should be much thorough-going cooperation between boards of health, health officers and boards of education, that every school and every pupil attending every school may have the full benefit of the latest and the best knowledge with reference to health preservation. Every community should have the services of an expert who is not only thoroughly trained in all the principles of public sanitation, but is equally well acquainted with the principles of personal hygiene.

A campaign of education should be pushed so vigorously that every man, woman and child in the whole United States may be within the shortest space of time made acquainted with the general principles of eugenics and right living by means of moving picture exhibitions, educational plays and methods and effects of food contamination and adulteration should be graphically displayed. Up-to-date methods of dairying, the care of foods in the market, the storage and the home, wholesome methods in the preparation of foods and all that pertains to nutrition should be made clear to the simplest mind by moving pictures and other means of dissemination. The evil effects of alcohol, syphilis, opium and other drugs, the deforming effects of wrong habits in sitting and other careless habits should be impressed upon the popular mind together with the effects of good habits, of the out-of-door life, of healthful sports, etc. Every community and every public school should be supplied with swimming pools, playgrounds, outdoor gymnasium and outdoor study places all of which should be under the supervision of trained directors.

Full Cooperation Necessary.
 The public will never supply these health advantages for children until made by education to appreciate the relation of a right environment and a natural life to vigor and efficiency. Through health conventions, health schools, parents classes and various other means this educational campaign may be carried on. The school nurse may not only inspect, instruct and care for children but also visit the children's homes and thus become acquainted with their home conditions, improving the opportunity to give instruction to the parents.

Acute diseases may be controlled by quarantine and public sanitation but chronic diseases are a home product. They are almost altogether the result of vicious habits of living derived from the normal conditions to which the human constitution is adapted.

Men and women everywhere must be instructed in the principles of eugenics and eugenics. Those who have the good fortune to be well bred should be instructed to live in a way as to maintain intact their superior qualities and pass them on to the next generation.

Some Suggestions
 Elements of all sorts which seek to promote physical welfare should be encouraged and unified. Courses in eugenics should be maintained in the schools until the two principal aims of the people are appreciated and habits become willing to be improved.

Prizes should be offered for the finest families and the best health and endurance records.

Laboratories and experimental stations should be established through which researches and experiments may be conducted for the purpose of accomplishing for human betterment what government and state have failed to do for the improvement of food plants and domestic animals.

Such researches conducted in a scientific spirit would in time achieve results infinitely more important than those which have been secured for our agricultural interests.

Through state life insurance, the whole population should be brought under government medical supervision. By periodical examinations the early beginnings of chronic diseases should be detected and thus arrested by timely instruction in regard to necessary changes in habits or occupations, and every such case should be made an object lesson by means of which relatives and friends should be influenced to adopt preventives in time to avoid the same maladies.

The Science of Eugenics.
 The new science of eugenics founded by Galton, supplemented by the now nearly perfected science of euthenics, when they come to be comprehended and put into practical operation, will result in a creation of an aristocracy of health in the development of a new race of men. Should not every body of health and official health agency be actively engaged in the battle against disease and degeneracy, in all its forms, chronic as well as acute? Why should this work be left to private initiative? Nothing could be more profitable to the state and nothing more prolific of satisfying results to those engaged in the effort than a thorough-going campaign for race betterment through sane living combined with scientific sanitation.

The establishment of the national department of health will provide a central bureau through which to unify the work and collate its results. Prof. Fisher estimates that the application of present knowledge of hygiene ought to increase the average of human life at least 15 years. Think what it would mean to the nation, to the world, if the average man lived 45 years instead of 30 years at 45. The addition to a single generation of one billion five hundred million years of life in this great and glorious country of ours is a goal well worth working for.

It appears improbable, however, that such a desirable result can be reached by public sanitation alone. The increasing death rates after 40 years chiefly due to unhygienic personal habits will soon neutralize the effect of public sanitation which has already nearly finished its greatest tasks, and can hardly hope to exert in the future so marked an influence on life extension. The thing now necessary is that the individual man, as well as the community and the domicile, shall be brought in harmony with the great biologic laws which govern human life.

FISHER MISSING; SON TUCSON MINE OWNER

YAKOTA, N. D. Sept. 11.—Frank Fisher, who was shot and killed here Monday night is now believed by the local police to be the missing son of George L. Fisher, a wealthy mine owner of Tucson, Ariz. Young Fisher is said to have left home eight months ago and, according to information received tonight by the police, detectives have since been searching for him. It is said Fisher came to this state and was recently in Lakota.

Frank Fisher is in jail, accused of shooting Fisher.

ULSTER WOULD GIVE WOMEN THE BALLOT

LONDON, Sept. 11.—The draft of the new constitution for which Sir Edward Carson, leader of the Ulster Unionists, and his followers are preparing for the Irish people and government provides for votes for women. This amendment has been made in the form of a petition to the Women's Social and Political Union, which recently sent a letter to Sir Edward Carson, in which it demanded equal rights for women.

Men and women everywhere must be instructed in the principles of eugenics and eugenics. Those who have the good fortune to be well bred should be instructed to live in a way as to maintain intact their superior qualities and pass them on to the next generation.

Such researches conducted in a scientific spirit would in time achieve results infinitely more important than

SOCIAL EVIL DISCUSSED BY HEALTH SCIENTISTS

Dr. J. H. Landis Presents Startling Facts—Declares Problem Should Be Handled Like Infectious Case.

Declaring that the social evil must receive the major portion of the efforts of those interested in the betterment of public health, Dr. J. H. Landis, health officer of Cincinnati, O., yesterday gave the American Public Health association delegates some pertinent facts and presented them in plain terms.

"The problem of the public health as affected by the social evil involves heredity, environment and, above all, the human instinct," said Dr. Landis. "We often disregard the basic sex instinct and any scheme of remedy which fails to investigate this falls. We cannot solve sanitary problems by caring for victims. We must get to the basis of the cause of their affliction."

Dr. Landis stated that the world's styles come from the demi monde of Paris, and little do the fashionable folk know, or possibly care, where their fashions are originated.

Industrialism a Contributor.
 Among the statements made by Dr. Landis are:

"Education, segregation, suppression, regulation and medical inspection have all been tried, and all have failed. They have failed because you cannot eliminate a primal instinct by education. Modern industrialism is one of the most important factors contributing to the social evil and the health problem under discussion. The occasional contact of the sexes found in the rural districts has given way to practically constant contact in the cities."

JUDGE LANDIS MADE DELINQUENT CRIMINAL CONSPIRACY CHARGE
 CHICAGO, Sept. 11.—Charges of criminal conspiracy were filed in the United States district court today against Federal Judge K. M. Landis, Assistant District Attorney Elwood G. Godman and Harry A. Parkin and Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Silver. The charges were made by Attorney Human Epstein and were based on the affidavit of Max Gerber, a convict at Fort Leavenworth, made while Epstein was serving a 15-month sentence for perjury, committed before Judge Landis.

Epstein charged the strength of a conspiracy framed by Judge Landis, the two government attorneys and Mr. and Mrs. Silver.

Epstein represented the Silvers in a bankruptcy proceeding. Silver confessed to perjury and gave testimony which resulted in Epstein's sentence to the federal penitentiary.

Says Testimony Was False.
 Gerber, who was a cell mate of Silver, stated in his affidavit that Silver had told him that his testimony which sent Epstein to prison was false.

Epstein revealed the fact that as a convict in the mail department of the prison he had read all of Silver's letters to and from his wife. He accused Judge Landis with when he read from a notebook quotations from a letter from Mrs. Silver.

Turning to District Attorney Wilkerson, Judge Landis said:

"For as information I will say I will never again send a prisoner from this court to any penitentiary where a man's private letters are kept in the custody of other prisoners."

The charges were made in Judge Landis' court by Epstein, who introduced a bill in the pleading for a writ of habeas corpus to practice in the United States court.

PLAY SUPERVISOR WILL START EAST TOMORROW

Arthur Murray, Jr., Finishes Work Here Methods of Instruction Receive High Praise

Reports from the meeting of the playground committee yesterday show that all subscriptions pledged have been paid, with the exception of four or five and that the committee will be able to pay all bills and end the year with a clean slate. Chairman J. E. Bennett is now engaged in checking up the accounts and will make an official report to the public within the next month.

Arthur Murray, Jr., play supervisor, will leave tomorrow for Cleveland, O. He has promised the committee to look over the various public schools here and make recommendations for the improvement of the grounds and the establishing of play places. While Mr. Murray does not know that he will be in Colorado Springs next year, he goes away with high praise for the town and declares that he will always boost this region.

In commenting upon the favor which children games have found with the children here as compared with those of other places, Mr. Murray mentioned especially the favor of interest taken in baseball. He thought that this condition might in some measure be due to the fact that there is no league ball in Colorado Springs. Hikes, too, have been rank outsiders in the favor of the children here. Doubtless the cross-country walking process is not much of a novelty to the boys and girls of the west, and accordingly has not proved popular as in the east. Tennis and indoor baseball seemed to take exceedingly well, and the doll contest was the real hit of the season with the little folk.

While no definite steps have been taken toward establishing public playgrounds for next year, the idea is growing, and the playgrounds, it is believed, will soon be made a permanent institution.

MAYOR GAYNOR DIES
 nor's death made in the general situation.

A week before Mayor Gaynor sailed on the Baltic, it now develops, he was visited at his country home at St. James, L. I., by his secretary, Robert Adamson, and Fire Commissioner Joseph Johnson. The latter, tonight, in speaking of the mayor's condition at that time, quoted him as saying of his illness:

"I coughed all night long. My right lung was fighting it out with the fish-hook in my throat. I don't see how my heart could stand it. I thought it would burst. But the doctor now says that I am all right. He says my heart is still good. I think I shall be all right shortly."

Had Suffered for Years.
 Mayor Gaynor's family physician, Dr. John W. Parrish, said today that the mayor had suffered from heart trouble for many years. This was a surprise to his friends, who had believed that his health was excellent up to the time he was shot.

"The mayor's death at this time came to me as a great shock," said Dr. Parrish. "At the same time, I was aware that he might expect a sudden end at any time. The signs of his serious condition have been evident ever since he was shot."

One of the mayor's heart troubles was in a weakened condition. At the same time, he suffered from arterio sclerosis. The two complaints often go together. At the time he was shot in Hoboken, the weakness of his heart was very evident. It was the kind of trouble that is likely to bring a man's life to a sudden close at any time.

"The trouble with his heart had nothing directly to do with his death. But, of course, the prolonged strain had its effect on his vitality."

Mayor Gaynor was a great worker. He never would take any vacation. He fought shy of doctors even when he had a bad headache of which he often complained. In the old days when he was on the bench, he would stay longer in court than any other justice, often until 6 when court was supposed to adjourn at 4. I warned him over, and over again that he must take a thorough rest.

ful fight against the so-called McLaughlin ring in Brooklyn. His battle against John J. McKane, boss of Sheepshead Bay and Coney Island attracted nationwide attention. McKane died in Sing Sing.

Gaynor was elected a justice of the supreme court of New York in 1882 on a nomination given him by Republicans and Independent Democrats, was reelected in 1887, but returned to accept the nomination of mayor of New York city to which he was elected in November, 1908. His career as mayor of New York bore the imprint of his personality in many striking innovations.

As he expressed it, "I never quarreled with the organization leaders because I was too busy. I simply went on and did my work from day to day and I kept their hands out of the public treasury."

Mayor Gaynor was a writer of many letters and attracted national attention by three and his policies. Prior to the Democratic national convention at Baltimore in June, 1912, the mention of his wife was frequent in connection with the Democratic nomination for president. He did not have the support of the Democratic organization in this state, however, and was not an active candidate for the place.

Sailed on September 4.
 Mayor Gaynor sailed away from New York, a fast falling man, on the morning of September 4. An hour before he sailed only one man, his secretary, knew of his plans outside of members of his immediate family. The mayor's departure was a surprise to his friends, who had believed that his health was excellent up to the time he was shot.

Mayor is Hopeful.
 The mayor himself, just before leaving, spoke of his condition as follows:

"I have been nearly four years mayor and have not yet had any vacation. I suppose almost everybody will concede that I may have one now. I have been laid up a few days with one of the sharp attacks I occasionally have from my mishap of a few years ago, but I am now over it and hope I never shall have another."

He was to attack Tammany hall sharply particularly as soon as he returned to the city. Before his departure he issued a characteristic statement leveled at Tammany hall leaders and other political opponents in which he referred to them as miserable scoundrels and asserted that they were seeking his moral assassination.

Bullet in Throat.
 The bullet that lodged in his throat three years ago had never been removed. It was the mayor's plan to remain abroad less than a week. He expected to sail for New York from Liverpool on September 15 and to reach this city a week later.

Mayor Gaynor's sudden death completely overthrew the municipal political situation. It removed from the field a candidate for mayor who was expected to cut heavily into the vote of the fusion nominee, John Purroy Mitchel, and leaves only the tickets nominated by the Democrats and Fusionists. The winner is headed by Edward E. McCall, former chairman of the public service commission of this district. The mayor's nomination was brought about by no particular political faction or party, but represented only his personal popularity. Politicians who discussed his death today expected that his followers would make no attempt to nominate a candidate in his place. No other places on the mayor ticket have been filled.

 Mayor Gaynor was placed at the head of the Independent ticket after Tammany hall had refused him a nomination. He was to lead those who opposed the regular Democratic organization, but yet were unwilling to join the fusion of Republicans and Fusionists.

His standard was the abolition, reminding voters of his efforts to hasten the building of the new subways. The mayor also said it was emblematic of his intention to clean the slatter out. The passing of Mayor Gaynor recalled the sudden death of Henry George of single tax fame and a third party candidate, almost on the eve of the New York mayoralty election, 16 years ago.

Kilne Acting Mayor.
 Secretary Adamson had read the cablegram announcing the mayor's death while he was at his home in Brooklyn. Mr. Adamson notified Mrs. Gaynor at the mayor's country home at St. James and then, under orders of Col. Adolph L. Kilne, the acting mayor, who will be New York's 117th executive until the inauguration of Mayor George A. Smith, in November. In this he was successful.

Colonel Kilne had left the home of his son-in-law after an early breakfast and at 10 o'clock had not heard of the mayor's death. At that hour the flag on the city hall was half-mast led by Mr. Adamson's order.

Tammany Shooting.
 Mayor Gaynor's death recalls the attempt on his life made by an assassin at Hoboken in June of 1910. On that day the mayor was returning from a brief vacation abroad and was in the same circumstances as those under which he left here, a week ago. He was standing on the steamer P. & W. Whittier der Groot, talking with friends, and the center of a group of city officials at the time.

Into this friendly gathering, James J. Gallagher, the would-be assassin, made his way unobserved. When close to the mayor, he drew a revolver and fired a shot. The bullet penetrated Mr. Gaynor's throat. He suffered from this serious injury for many weeks, but finally recovered to a sufficient degree to enable him to resume his duties and was apparently none the worse for his experience until recently, when the wound began to trouble him again.

Gallagher had been dismissed from the dock department of the city of New York under Mayor Gaynor and had repeatedly endeavored to induce the mayor to reinstate him. For his crime he was sentenced to 13 years' imprisonment. After little more than a year in prison he was transferred to the New Jersey State Hospital for the Insane at Trenton and died there last February.

Lacking all details of the manner of the mayor's death, his friends here believed that the heart attack spoken of in Rufus Gaynor's cablegram was brought on by a return of the coughing fits that has recurred at intervals since he was shot.

Although the mayor had no presentiment that his trip would end fatally, he had at different times within the last year or two told his secretary that the violence of these attacks was a great strain on his heart and he feared that at some time or other, one of them might result seriously.

"Fish Hook" Caused Death.
 The mayor used to speak of the irritation in his throat as a "fish hook." It was this "fish hook" probably that caused his death.

Just before he received notification of his nomination by the popular demonstration at the city hall, the mayor had been in bed off and on for about a week at his summer home at St. James.

Mrs. Gaynor with one of her unmarried daughters is at St. James. The other two unmarried daughters are at a boarding school up the Hudson. The mayor's other son is at the mayor's Brooklyn home.

The mayor had two married daughters, Mrs. W. Seward Webb and Mrs. Harry K. Vinokur.

At 11 a. m. Greenwich time the wireless said the Baltic was 250 miles west of Queensboro.

A. L. Kilne who will be acting mayor of New York till January 1 next is a resident of Brooklyn and a Republican.

Nifong Terror Captain 45 Candidates Are Out

No Game With Tigers; Football Men Clean
Off Field; Dr. Acker Insists on Training

Eugene Nifong was yesterday elected captain of the football team at the high school by a unanimous vote. Nifong is a spirited plunging halfback and has played two seasons, knowing the game.

The first meeting of the candidates for the team was held yesterday afternoon when more than 30 answered the first call. The first regular practice will be held tonight on the old high school field in Monument valley park, the school board having declined to provide another yesterday. The candidates for the team yesterday declared their loyalty and independence by determining to make the old field fit for practice this afternoon.

Acker Gives In.
Coach Acker gave his squad a little pep talk yesterday and told them that will be what this season. He warned the men that any failure they have had in the past to train would mean their dismissal from the squad. "No smoking, no pastrys, no nuts, no beer," he said. "Cut out the fusties. These were the little bits of advice that Coach Acker gave his players."

Team prospects are very bright. With 45 men, more than enough for this team, on the field, and with veteran players weighing from 150 to 225, waiting for their places on the line, the prospects at the institution are better this year than for many moons.

Manager Copeland is lining up a schedule and this will not include the usual game with the Tigers, which is usually played the first week in October.

CHIEF MEYERS' BROTHER KILLED IN BRAWL IN DENVER SALOON; PLAYED IN WESTERN

DENVER, Sept. 11.—Philip Sandoval, a bartender and baseball player, posed locally as a brother of Big Chief Meyers of the New York National baseball team and said to have been recently released by the Sioux City team of the Western league, was shot and killed tonight by Samuel Long, son of Samuel H. Long, secretary of the Kansas City Casualty company, as the result of a barroom brawl. Long, who surrendered to the police and is in jail, declared Sandoval had kicked him in the face before he shot in self-defense.

The brawl is said to have started over a dice game.

Sandoval's home is in Riverside, Cal. He has been in Denver three months, and was recently married. He was 27 years old.

Long recently arrived here from Kansas City on a sightseeing trip. He is 26 years old.

SNOW AND-SLEET NO PREVENTION OF NEW AUTO RECORD UP PEAK

Ollie Hall, C. C. Man, and P. F. Vollmer, Drive Little Car
Up in 2:36

Plunging through a terrific snow storm that erased traces of the road and losing their way several times due to a heavy fog, Ollie Hall, a former Colorado college student and son of a prominent Denver physician, and Paul F. Vollmer yesterday drove a 20-horsepower Ford roadster to the summit of Pikes Peak in two hours and 36 minutes, breaking all records. The former record of 2:32 was made in July by a Buick car. Vollmer is local agent for the Ford.

The machine consumed six gallons of gasoline and the mileage for the round trip was 60 miles. Twice the men lost their way and driving over slippery roads, with snow they barely escaped plunging down precipitous several times. The men declare that with good weather and being acquainted with the road that they can cut 30 minutes off the record.

The machine used is a historic one, having been struck by a passenger train in Fort Collins two years ago and two occupants killed. Hall bought it and rebuilt it.

NAVY WILL BEGIN SOON

ANNAPOLIS, Sept. 11.—The Navy will begin football practice in earnest when the football men who are on a summer cruise return here on September 29. The balance of the squad will be called out then and the entire squad will be given about 10 days' workout before the opening of the season.

TIGERS AFTER EARLY START BUT RAIN PUTS CRIMP IN THE PLANS

Koch Back in Good Condition;
Next Week Will See Men
Start Hard Work

Yesterday's rain showed that a crimp in the Tigers' early start was inevitable. Coach Hutchins is at ease regarding his lineup.

Ed Koch, tackle who played gym football last autumn in spite of an injured back, returned to college yesterday and will probably be out. With Bowers and Koch last year's veterans out for tackle plays, and Gibson and Hagie pushing them for the job, this department of the line shows up well.

These new men will be used in other positions. Taylor and Kramer promise to be a pair of speedy ends, and Kramer is used to plug up job. Mummack is working hard for center.

The backfield proposition is what is worrying Rothery. Anxious to get an early start and get his team drilled, the coach is not at all decided as to his quartet behind the line. Four quarterbacks are out for that place and all are light.

Their knowledge of the game is uncertain, with the exception of Randolph, who directed the eleven last season. Poor ever-astish handicaps his work. He is rusty and a good runner through a broken field.

Claybaugh seems to be the only thing in sight for fullback unless it be Jack Taylor, who is being tried at end most of the time. Claybaugh is doing the heavy with the boot so far, and his kicks are improving right along. The other backfield candidates, Cheese, Lewis, Move, Emery, Emall, Ross, are still undecided as to position.

The team will start on Washburn field next week, when the tackling dummy and bucking machine will be mauling around a bit. Scrimmage play is far, far away yet, the men being hardly in condition for any rough play.

Weight figures have not yet been compiled, but the line will probably average 150, while the backfield will average about 160.

FOOTBALL IS HOLDING CENTER OF INTEREST; DOPE ON TEAMS

Harper Back at Mines
To Be in Line for Quarterback

Coach Hughes of the Mines is reported to be looking over the squad of freshmen in order to locate a man with sufficient mental capacity to handle the job of quarterback. Leigh, who sustained a fractured skull in the C. C. game here last fall, will not be out, and Dwybiss is being picked for the job. The Mines have a hunky squad.

Utah to Try Yale System
The University of Utah will adopt the tactics of Yale in the handling of its future football team.

From now on careful and strict coaching, the best that can be secured will be furnished the baby gridiron aggregation which will furnish the backbone for the varsity eleven. This is the announcement made by Coach Fred Hennion.

This fall a first coach and an assistant coach will handle and train the first year men. As much if not more, attention will be paid to the new material on the east bench than to the team which will compete for the Rocky Mountain honors so that for next season the varsity will be assured of classy material for the varsity squad.

Tommy Fitzpatrick, quarterback on last year's eleven, will assist Lieutenant H. M. Nelly of Fort Douglas, in coaching the freshmen.

To make it more interesting, the freshmen who will compete this year excel all expectations of the university athletic heads.

Jim Egan, who played football and baseball at the University of Indiana, and Bert Howell, also an athlete from Indiana, will register this fall at the University of Utah, and will break into athletics here on the freshman eleven. Henry Schweitzer, who played for the Agricultural college at Logan, will also join hands and smoke the pipe of peace with the Crimson institution this fall. He also will be a member of the baby aggregation. Then there are the Salt Lake High school athletes and Ben Parkinson, who was the star athlete at the L. D. S. High school last year.

Coach Hennion announces that football work for the varsity will not commence until the university opens. Most of the men are working on ranches, or participating in a little summer baseball and are in fit condition. It appears that there will be no disappointments from "fakers" this fall as has been the worry of the past.

McIntire, Travers (the Stock brother), Captain Rex Rutherford, T. G. Hampton and Hamilton constitute themselves a nucleus around which one of the strongest aggregations in western football could be built.

One other thing that strengthens Utah's athletic prospects for this fall, winter and spring is the high financial standing in which the athletic treasury was left in by Manager Frank Cameron, who ran the money and affairs last year. Cameron left the athletic treasury several thousand to the good on the balance sheet and in such a shape that there will be little trouble in slaking up athletic contracts with any universities in the conference or with institutions not in the conference.

BUSY AT YALE FIELD

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 11.—The Yale football squad are busy making arrangements for the season and looking at the new uniforms. The players and the staff are working hard to get the team in shape for the season.

These will be the chief features of today's game.

Trainer Harry Turbell arrived yesterday and took charge of the squad.

BALENTI ASSISTANT COACH

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 11.—Mike Balenti, star player of the local National league team, has been selected assistant coach of the St. Louis Cardinals.

RASH COVERED FACE NECK AND CHEST

Affected by Poison Oak. Itched Until Nearly Crazy. Had to Walk Floor At Night. Cuticura Soap
and Ointment Cured.

Dryden, Ore. — Traveling through the woods one day I was looking at and handling a little vine. When I got home I felt an itching and burning and the first thing I knew my face was all swollen up. The poison oak affected my face, hands, arms and chest and
it disgusted me very much.
My face and neck were broken out and itched until I was nearly crazy. I had to walk the floor at night and lose much sleep and work also. My face and chest were covered with a heavy rash.
I could not allow clothing of any kind to touch the affected parts.
I was told that — and — would relieve me but I got no relief. I used other remedies without success. It got to such a stage that if I hadn't gotten relief soon I would certainly have lost my mind. My mother happened to have a cake of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment in the house and I washed with the Cuticura Soap freely and then applied the Cuticura Ointment. I got relief at the first application and then I slept like a child. In three weeks
I was perfectly cured. (Signed) E. E.
DeGra, M., 28, 1913.

"CASTE" IN THE NAVY

From the New York Tribune
Mr. Daniels' warfare against what he conceives to be caste prejudice in the navy has taken a practical turn.
He urges that warrant officers should have the fullest possible opportunity and, indeed, encouragement to enter the competitive examinations for appointment as ensigns. It goes without saying that all examinations should be fairly conducted with a view to facilitating passage by worthy candidates as well as to excluding the unworthy. The effect upon warrant officers of an assurance that they have a fair chance of promotion on their merits must be good. It will be well, however, not to expect too hastily the theory of Mr. Daniels and of Mr.
Egan the "examinations are too
strictly controlled; they are difficult, and doubtful; they should be in no way hastened of government service in these days of higher technical education. The navy, moreover, the world's standard of judicial discretion and of general knowledge of the world and of affairs which Paul Daniels is president at the beginning than it was a century ago. The question of candidate's "adaptability" is therefore not to be slighted, though,
of course, it is not to be unfairly manipulated.

Mrs. Astor and Her Social Prize, the Grand Duke

This remarkable photograph was made at Newport and shows Mrs. John Astor, the divorced wife of the late Col. John Jacob Astor, who has but rapidly regained her old position of power in Newport society since her recent return from London, and the Grand Duke Alexander Michailowitch, a son of the Czar.
The duke is only the most sought after social lion of the island. Mrs. Astor and Mrs. Astor has practically monopolized him, much to the chagrin of her more ambitious hostesses.

The Remedy for Present Wave of Indecent Dressing

Edward Bok, in Collier's Whatever may be the opinion of the present indecent styles in women's dress, or the impenetrable enigma of their adoption by even a portion of our headstrong American women, we know where they come from, and in view of that fact the remedy lies in the hands of every decent American woman.
During the past five years in particular the Paris dressmakers have,
step by step, shown the steady degeneration of their waning art in the so-called "Paris styles" which they have sent over here. Each year the tendency to lower the standards has become more strongly marked. But it must be said to the credit of the French gentlewoman that these styles are neither indolent nor worn by her. She wears them with contempt. They are the creations of the disordered minds of French dressmakers who have lost all sense of art and decency, have become pure commercialists, and who laughing in their sleeves at the American women are as one of the greatest of them recently said, "seeing how far they can go in making damn fools of the American women." No Frenchwoman of the slightest refinement wears these styles, they are the hall mark of the vulgar, the French underworld.
The French style, Paris is the place of the French style. As Mme.
Sarah Bernhardt said upon her last visit to America, "it was a perfect embarrassment to her to see apparently so many American women dressed like the French models of Paris."

the steady trend toward American American fashions for American women, and the wonderfully rapid spread of the idea throughout the country, are the first awakenings of American womanhood in the right thing to do. Nor is this trend confined to the American women. The rebuke being administered to Paris,
which particularly this summer her dressmakers have felt in a marked falling off in trade, is world-wide. In Italy the dressmakers are united in a campaign for Italian fashions for Spanish women. Spain is standing for Spanish fashions for Spanish women;
in Berlin a dressmakers' union has established a school for German fashions for German women; the women of the Netherlands have absolutely refused to buy "Paris styles" for over a year, and now come London in response, an emphatic disapproval of the Paris modes.

In the absolute loss of its once superior art in dress designing, Paris is on the wane, and no one realizes it more clearly than do her own customers.
So alarmed are these dressmakers
over the tide of revolt in America that these of their leaders came over here during the past year, to see what was the matter. The present outburst of indecent dressing from Paris is the last gasp of a vanishing art. Paris as a fashion center faces the setting sun.

And never was the time more propitious for the rising of the sun in America in a firm and complete establishment of American fashions for American women. To say that we cannot design our own women's clothes is like saying we cannot accumulate the historical treasures of our libraries and the paintings of our galleries to furnish us with the best of the world's art. And what the Paris designers of old and what the Paris designers of the future must do is to the credit of the American woman and to the credit of the American woman. No race is more skilful in the art of the art of the American woman and the art of the American woman is the art of the American woman. Since all costume must of necessity be based on historical costume, Paris has always done this, always based on historical costume. Not a single original fashion has been born from Paris. It is always based on the costume of other races
and of other times.

But the American woman must give the American designers encouragement. She must believe that her own designers know her needs, her temperament, her environment, better than do the Parisian designers, and that she has never set foot on American soil and are not ignorant of her life and her needs. No
last year can she rightfully dress an Anglo-Saxon people, the temperament, the environment, the climate, the needs—all are different, and it is upon these that proper costume rests and is based. Moral conceptions and standards are likewise different. The freer American mental outlook would be absolutely incapable in thinking in terms of the present degenerate fashions, they are the expression of a tainted Latin temperament.

Had we years ago as we are now doing taken hold of the idea of American fashions for American
women and encouraged and accepted it we should not now be reaping the whirlwind of a fetish to let a few commercialists of disordered minds, 3,000 miles away, say what our American girls and women should wear. It is our own fault that we have allowed this spectacle of indecent dressing to come upon us, and it will be our own fault if we allow it to continue. The remedy is perfectly simple—we must turn away from Paris and the clothes of her demimonde and set about to encourage our own designers, our own manufacturers, our own dressmakers,

our own industry. Then we will conserve two things—our own economic independence and keep 28,000,000 of good American dollars at home where they belong, and our own moral standards.

NEW YORK CITY'S GARBAGE GOLD MINE

One of the most remarkable contracts entered into by any municipality in the garbage disposal agreement just concluded between New York City and a Peekskill, N. Y., contractor. The highly speculative character of the terms are little short of amazing. Under the present arrangement the city
pays the Sanitary Utilization company $10,000 annually to dispose of the garbage of the three boroughs but after January 3, 1914, when the Peekskill man gets the job, the city will sell its garbage to the contractor at the rate of $22,500 for the first year, $27,500 for the second year and $32,500
for the third year, and the same amount for each of the succeeding two years, if the contract is renewed, a total of $487,500 for the five-year period.

Commenting upon these unusual
terms, the editor of the Engineering News, who has repeatedly exposed the fools of short-term garbage-reduction
contracts, remarks:

Assuming that the city does not extend the contract then to come out even the contract must make enough money in three years to (1) cover the cost of his plant plus interest, and minus salvage; (2) operating expenses
for both transportation and reduction;
and (3) the price paid to the city for the garbage. We do not presume to say that the contractor cannot do this and come out even. We only wish to call attention to the apparently speculative character of the contract, speculative, first, as to the chance of the possible two-year extension and, second, as to the hope of again getting the contract at the end of five years or else selling the plant. Possibly still another element of speculation entered into this bid: that of being able to buy the plant or the present contractor at a price much less than the cost of installing a new plant.
